

Edwin Ramoran

Edwin Ramoran is an independent curator, an in-home primary caregiver, and a lifelong resident of Palm Springs. He is co-founder of Bayanihan Desert which was formed in Palm Springs to increase the civic engagement of residents of Filipino descent and to build coalitions with communities of color in the greater Coachella Valley. He is active with the Asian Pacific American Labor Alliance, Inland Empire Chapter, and with Filipino Los Angeles arts organizations Kita Kits, Puro Arte, and Pintados Gallery.

Edwin received a BA in Art History with minors in Ethnic Studies and Journalism from the University of California, Riverside and is an MA candidate in Art History at Hunter College of the City University of New York.

Edwin cares deeply about racial justice, labor rights, and LGBTQI+ rights.
